More Staff moving and shaking! Well... he was here for a good time not a long time... Van has made the quick decision that he is not a fit for this team, and he left us last week. Kevin is once again on the hunt to find us a good head chef! We have really put Kevin through the paces since he got here! I am glad he is here!!

A big shout out to Mark Eggleston for bringing so many amazing apples! Ebba's son has been bringing us apples every fall, and all the residents really do appreciate them.

Now that the boilers are on please be on the lookout for any brown sticky puddles under your radiators. Please write any findings in the book so we can handle repairs asap. Also, if your heat is totally out of control – raging hot in your suite or non-responsive when you call for heat - please let us know so we can fix it. I appreciate it was a bit warmer than some would like in the building this weekend... thank you for your patience as we work our way through shoulder season. I am just glad the boilers have been started! It gets pretty cold at night!

Personal:

Leonard is trying to figure out the new schedules in our house. Desmond has a very erratic schedule, starting class at noon three days a week, so he is never really sure who is coming and going. Desmond's girlfriend lives out of town and she and Desmond are sharing a parking spot, but their classes don't align very well, so now she is coming and going unexpectedly as well for Leonard. Keeping him on his toes! He is 7 years old now, so he is starting to slow down a bit. He is a mature old man! And he gets colder at night. I have woken up with him pressed so firmly to my legs trying to steal all my warmth, and sometimes even shivering. We had to turn our furnace on this weekend, so that helped him.
